Facebook Groups

---

Facebook Groups provide a closed space for small groups of people to communicate about shared interests. Groups can be created by anyone.

Groups allow for:

- Group Chat: Chatting with an entire group in a single chat stream. Facebook chat is not available on ONP.
- Group Email: Send bulk emails, similar to a mailing list.
- Privacy Controls: Set up Groups with separate privacy settings, allowing different Groups to view different content.

While some posts may decide to create Groups around short-term campaigns, there is a danger that allowing some users more information than others on a Facebook Page may be seen as censoring.

If you decide to set up a Group, you will need to go to www.facebook.com/groups/

Groups are created on your profile, not your Page. In order to use Groups, you would have to go through your personal profile.

Select Create Group to start the process for creating a Group. You will have the option to select from three types of Groups:

- Open: Members and content are public.
- Closed: Members are public, content is private.
- Secret: Members and content are private.

Once you have selected the type of Group, named the Group and added members (members must be Facebook users), you have successfully created a Group.

You can manage your Group by using 'Edit Group' and 'Edit Settings.' Edit Group allows you to change the Group name, the privacy setting, the email address designated for the Group and the Group description.

Edit Settings allows you to set notifications for your group.
